Weaving with nature

Creative young minds wanted with endless imagination and eager hands. Almost anything can be used for weaving, whether it's weed vines, grasses, bark, twigs, flowers, or other exciting finds, imagination provides the limits. Whether the results are beautiful patterns or entire pictures, whether they end up as wall hanging or as garden decorations, they will be every young artist's personal creation.

Shadow painting

Let the sun do the painting! You will find the materials in the outdoors to create your picture, prepare your 'canvas' by painting it with a special liquid, design your picture and let the sun do the rest of the work! Something beautiful to take home!

Who: Prep to primary school age
Where: CWCN Centre, 47 Hepworth St, Chapel Hill (UBD 178 A11)
When: 9:30am to 12:00 noon

Your very own nature diary Sketched, written and collected

This activity will engage children through observing, experiencing and capturing the moment. It will allow them to absorb at their own pace, to express what they see and feel in their very personal way by creating their very own nature diary. It will teach them mindfulness with the help of our natural surrounds and alert them to those surrounds. The activity is tailored so that it enables younger and older children to have approaches appropriate to their age.

Who: Prep to primary school age
When : 9:30am to 12:00pm
Where: Biami Yumba Park, end of Fig Tree Pocket Rod, Fig Tree Pocket
Fee: $15 ($10 for members)

Thursday, 1st October 2020

What happened back then?

A few years ago a group of friends met regularly in their tree house above Cubberla Creek. They had a great time, sitting and having fun while also observing the creek and its surrounds....until one day something happened..... But what? Let's retrace their steps, find out more as we walk along the creek. We are kept in suspense as we gradually obtain information and finally understand the entire story, and know whether their friendship survives. This is as much about friendship as it is about nature and the creek.

Who: Best for mid primary school age
When: 9:30am to 12:00pm
Where: CWCN Centre, 47 Hepworth St, Chapel Hill
Fee: $15 ($10 for members)

We have your children's health and safety in mind. All activities are run by holders of current Blue Cards and will be conducted in line with CWCN's COVID Safe Plan.
